There are three options at the bottom: “Blog”, “Upload” and “Image URL” Click on the “Upload” option and an orange button will appear that says “Click to upload a file”-click on this to add your photo:

The screenshot shows the 'inlinkz' interface for adding a link. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the logo and 'Back to blog » Add link' on the left, and 'Help adding links' on the right. The main heading is 'Adding link to https://www.tuning-my-heart.com/blog/bowunder-the-stars-sashing-and-cornerstones'. Below this is a 'Show history' button. The form contains three input fields: 'Link:' with a placeholder 'Your link URL. Just leave empty if no URL is available', '*Link title:' with a placeholder 'The name or title that will be visible under your thumbnail' and a character count of '50', and '*Email:' with a placeholder 'Not visible to anyone. Only owner of linkup has access to it'. To the right of these fields is a dashed box containing a blue frog icon and the text 'No thumbnail'. Below the form is the 'Image source' section with three radio buttons: 'Blog', 'Upload', and 'Image URL'. The 'Upload' option is selected, and an orange button labeled 'Click to upload a file' is visible. A large grey area contains the text '... or drag file here' and two blue buttons labeled 'Select' and 'Crop'. At the bottom right of the form is a blue button labeled 'done!'.

Choose the photo from your computer files that you want to upload.

This screenshot shows the same 'inlinkz' interface as the previous one, but with the 'Upload' option selected. The 'Click to upload a file' button is now red. Below it, the 'Upload' option is highlighted in yellow, showing the filename 'DSC04128v.jpg' and its size '1.4MB'. To the right of this information is a thumbnail image of a blue and white quilt. The 'Select' and 'Crop' buttons are still present. The 'done!' button remains at the bottom right.

Once your photo is uploaded click on the blue “Select” button and a second copy of your photo will appear on the page.
